

BUSINESS PROCESS OUTSOURCING

One right tool is the whole solution

Skilled employees working to the highest standards

It takes skilled employees and high standards to lift 'Best in Class' to new heights and create attractive outsourcing solutions. Elfac has already achieved this. And that is why we can simplify production and storage handling as well as saving many resources for our customers.

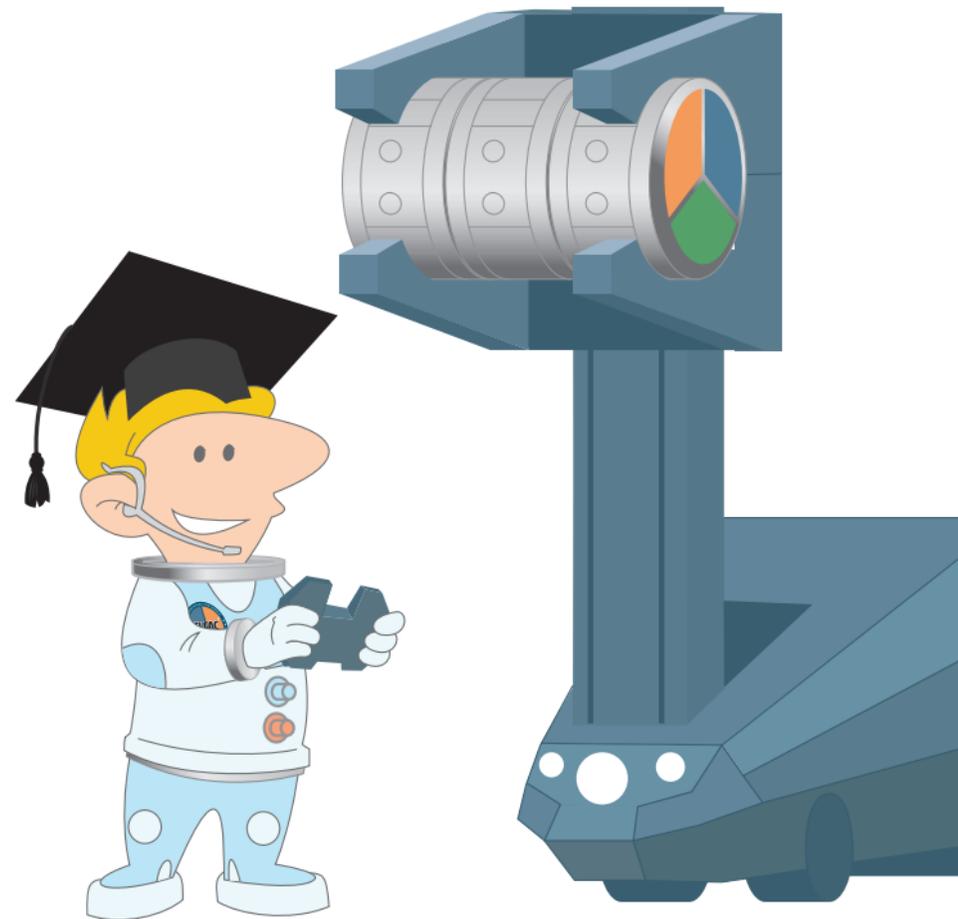

Define - Design - Deliver

Elfac has implemented our most important tool, 'Define - Design - Deliver' in the entire organisation. That gives us a shared starting point and ensures that we use all our resources on creating solutions that benefit our customers.

Visit the engine room

For Elfac, Business Process Outsourcing is much more than just a method. It is an attitude to task solving that makes our customers more competitive.

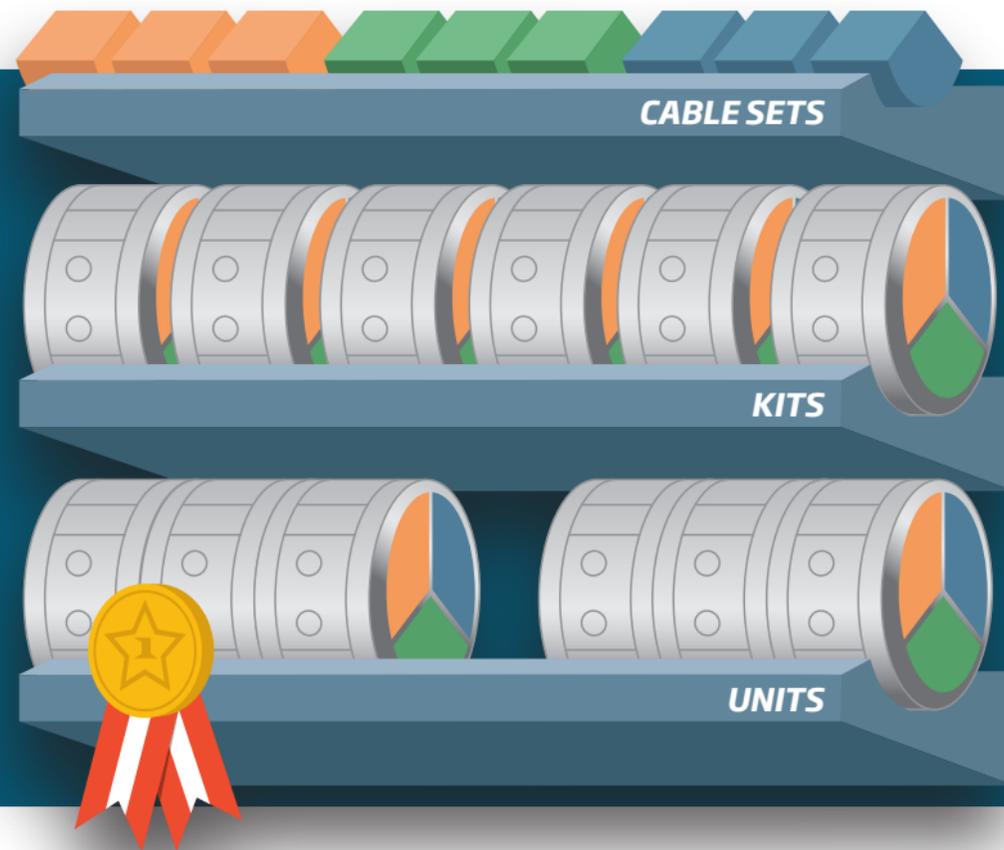

Have a look into the engine room and see how we contribute to quality improvement and cost efficiency at our customers both nationally and abroad.

Training, systems and quality everywhere you look

Elfac has its own academy where our employees are trained to ensure they all use the same working method regardless of where and with what they work.

We adhere to international standards and have incorporated them in our own BPO concept to be able to deliver “harness without the hassle” in the correct volume and the required finish.

HARNES without the hassle

Elfac's mission is to deliver "harness without the hassle" and that defines every thing we do, no matter if it is advice, cable sets, kits or units, with or without installation.

New levels

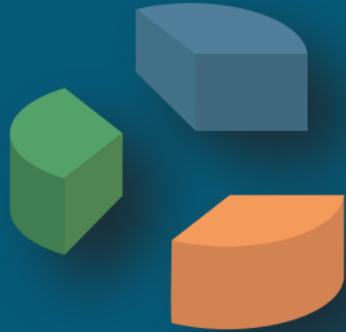

All our expertise is available to our customers and we are ready to take away all the hassle that can be outsourced and create a collaboration involving development, documentation and logistics.

What do you want?

Our customers can choose the level of collaboration and efficiency whether we are talking advice, cable sets, kits and units, plug and play or installation.

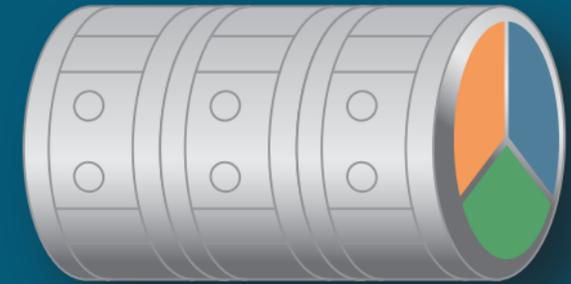

Cable sets

Kits

Units

Together we can take 'Best in Class' to higher levels and reach new targets.

DEFINE

- making the task clear from the outset

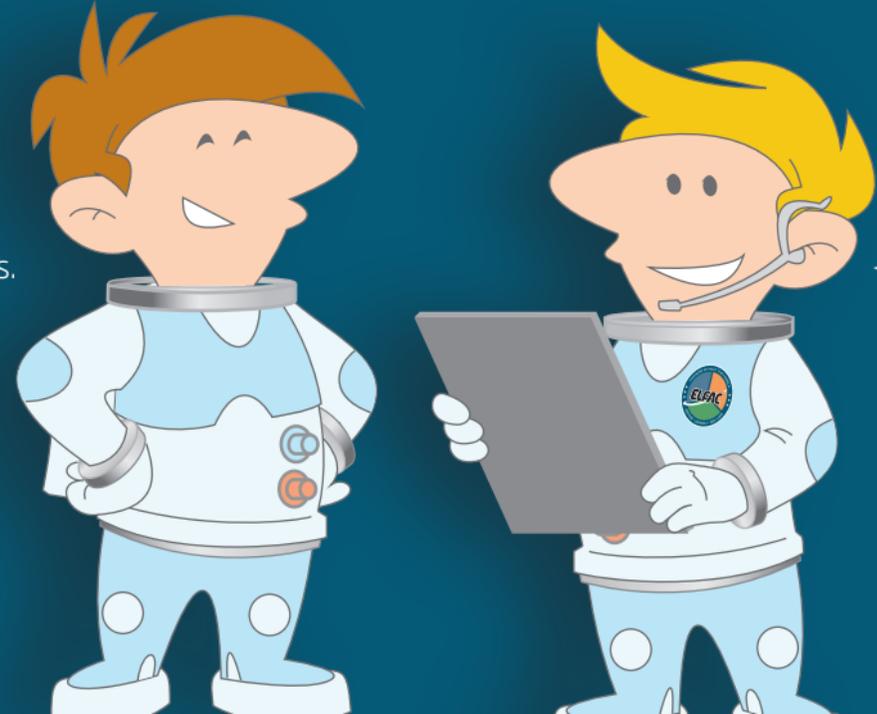

Early involvement is the secret behind successful outsourcing. That is why Elfac begins each new collaboration with a review of production processes, product specification, and specific requirements.

Planning the details

The next step is a detailed analysis of products and documentation so the entire process can be carefully planned and possible pitfalls can be removed and avoided.

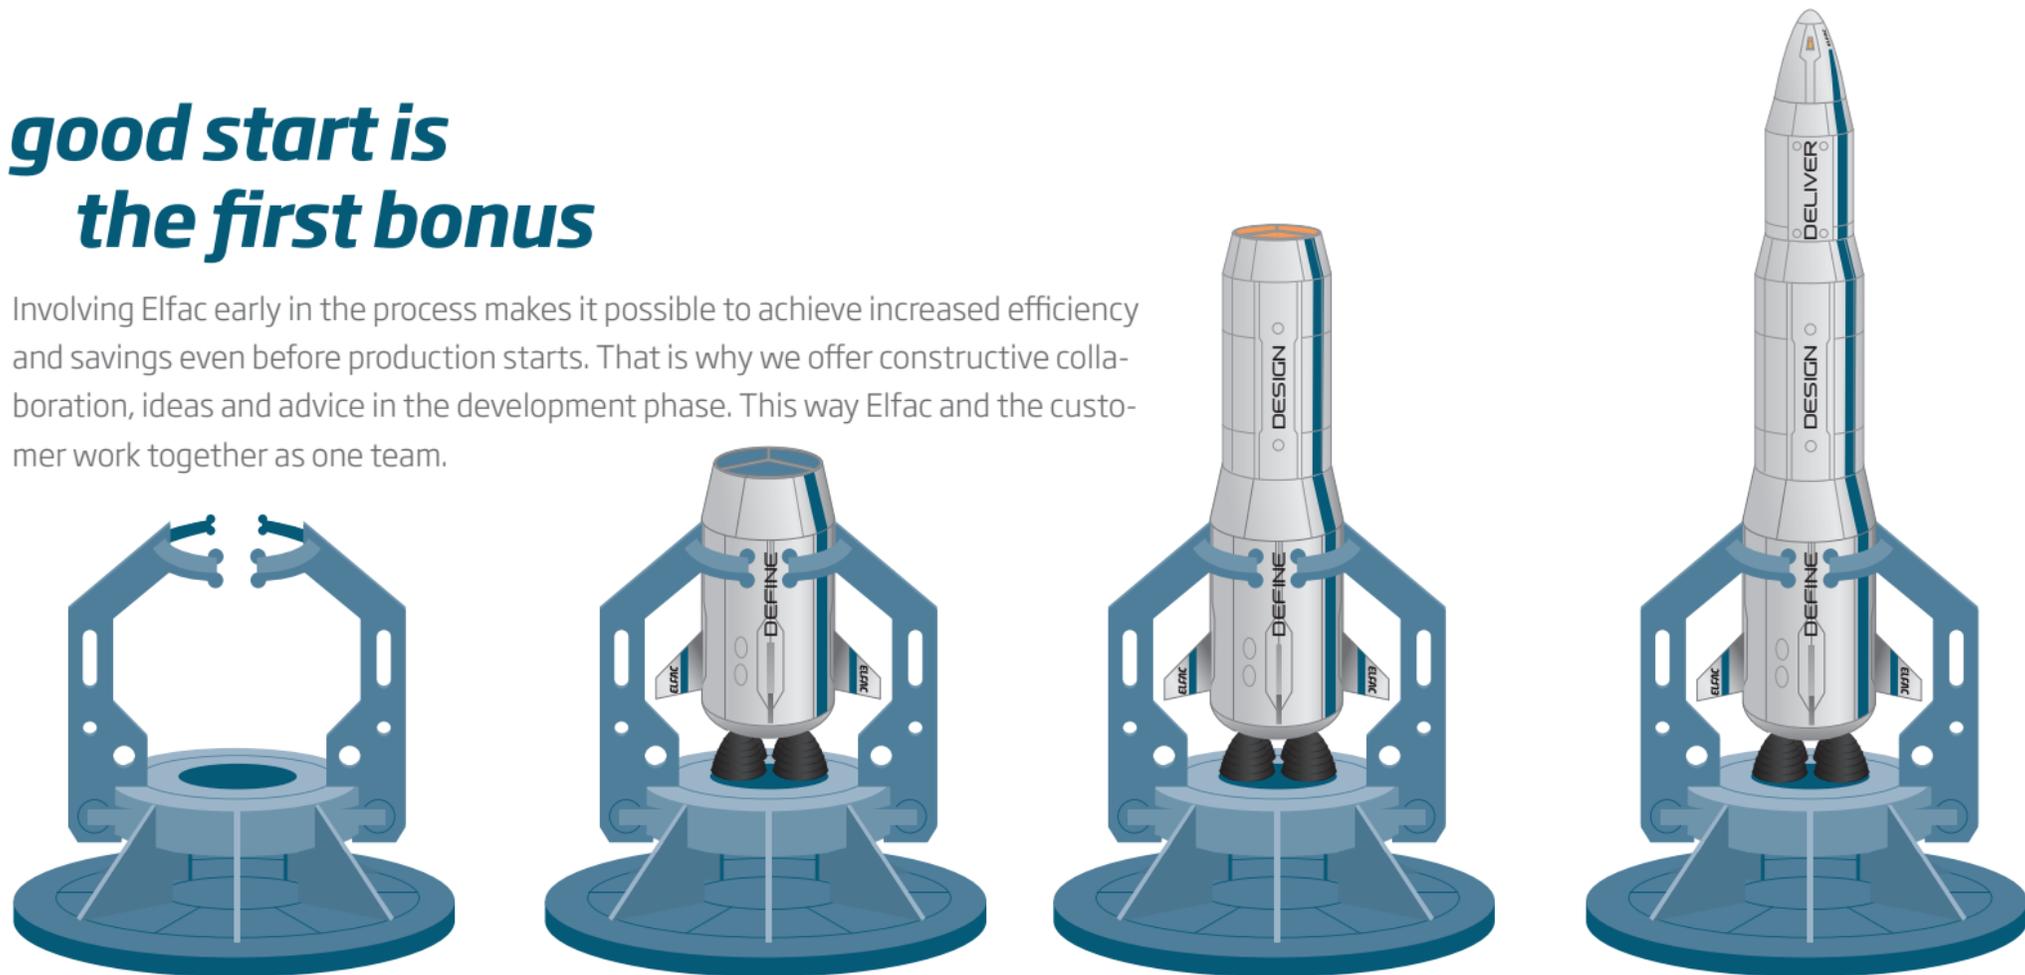

Efficiency from the start

The thorough preparation makes it possible – even at this stage – to reveal increased efficiency and suggest a specific way to work together that matches expectations and creates new possibilities for our customers.

A good start is the first bonus

Involving Elfac early in the process makes it possible to achieve increased efficiency and savings even before production starts. That is why we offer constructive collaboration, ideas and advice in the development phase. This way Elfac and the customer work together as one team.

DESIGN

- planning the production

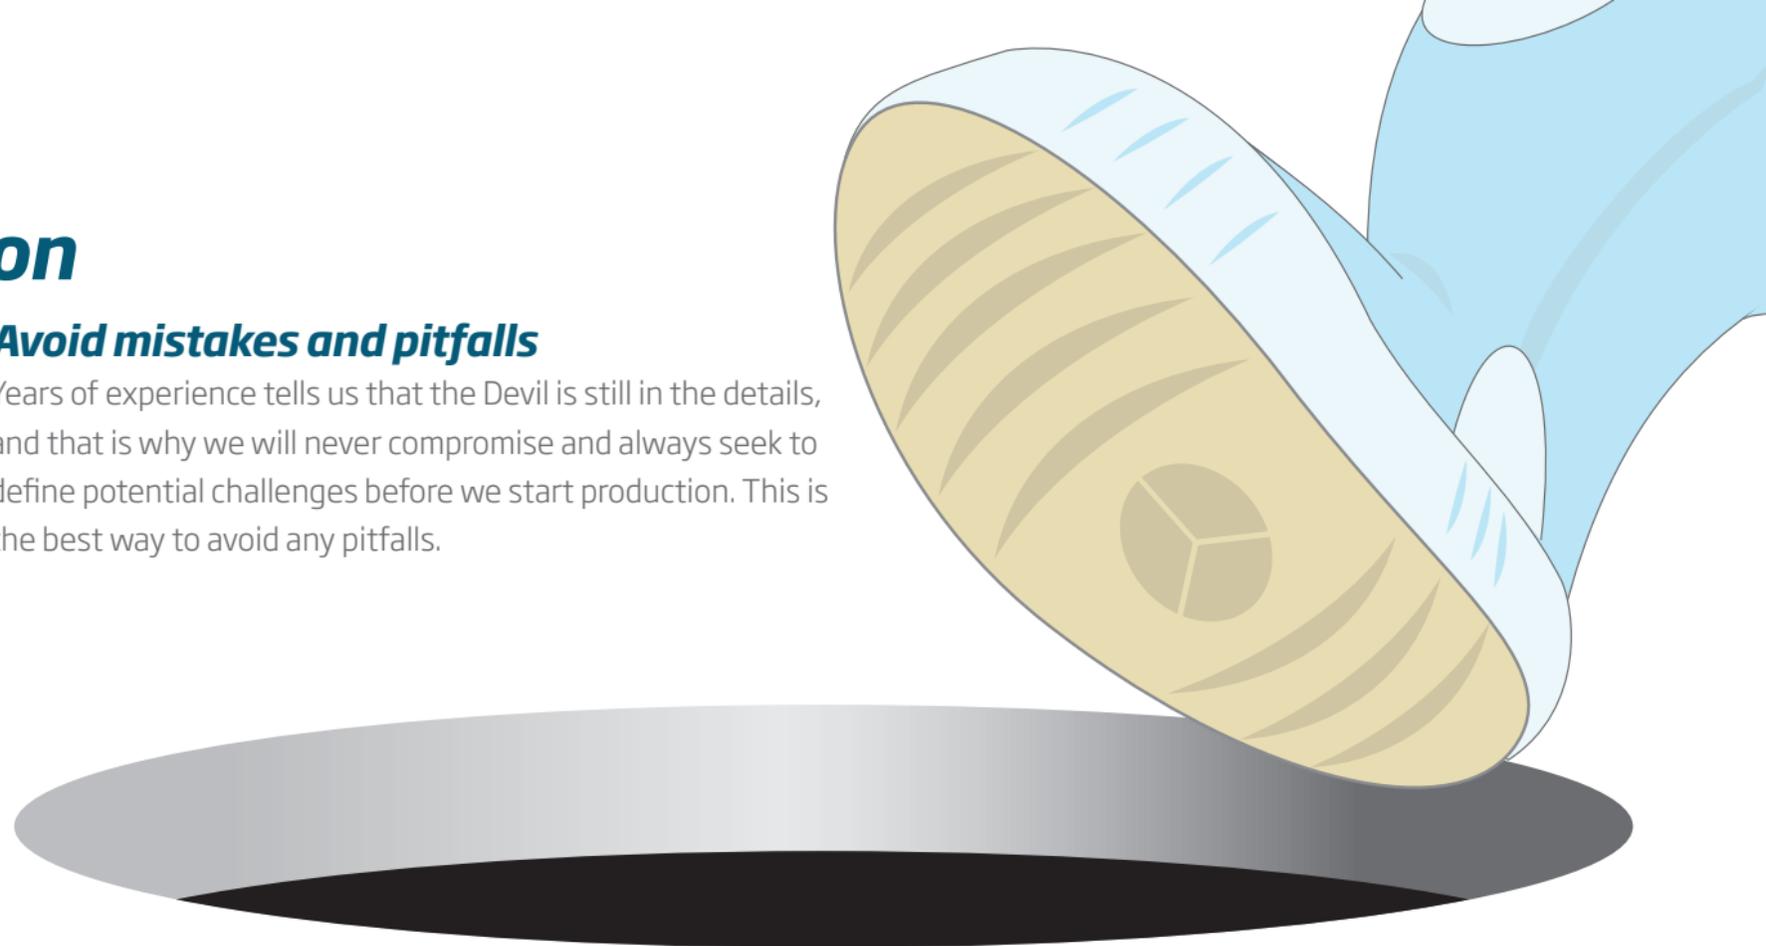

When Elfac designs a production of units, kits or cable sets, the key words are care and coherence. That is why we deliver a detailed description of the processes (APQP) from request to quality control, delivery and potential installation.

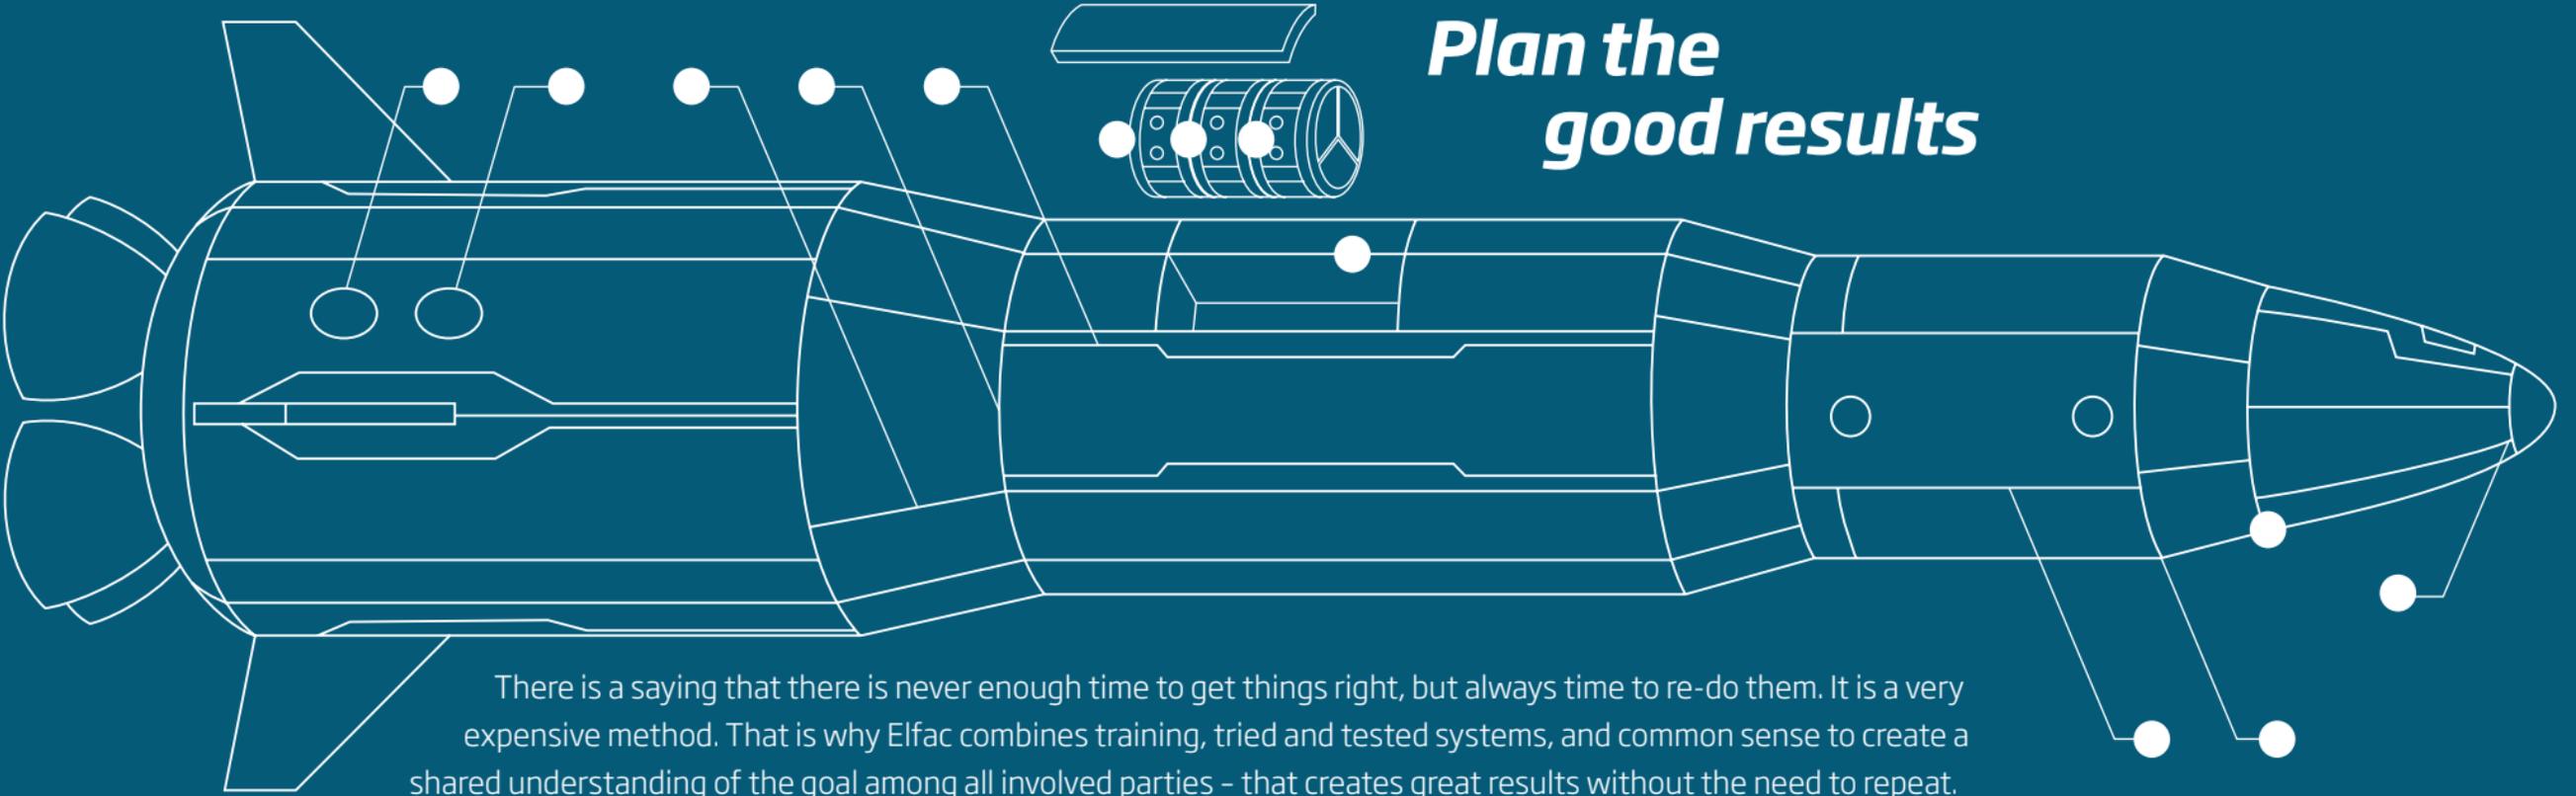

Qualified employees

The process begins with the production demands and involves thorough employee training in the specific tasks, a final production plan, and delivery of a 0-series, review and verification.

Avoid mistakes and pitfalls

Years of experience tells us that the Devil is still in the details, and that is why we will never compromise and always seek to define potential challenges before we start production. This is the best way to avoid any pitfalls.

Plan the good results

There is a saying that there is never enough time to get things right, but always time to re-do them. It is a very expensive method. That is why Elfac combines training, tried and tested systems, and common sense to create a shared understanding of the goal among all involved parties - that creates great results without the need to repeat.

DELIVER - the right quality every time

Best outcome

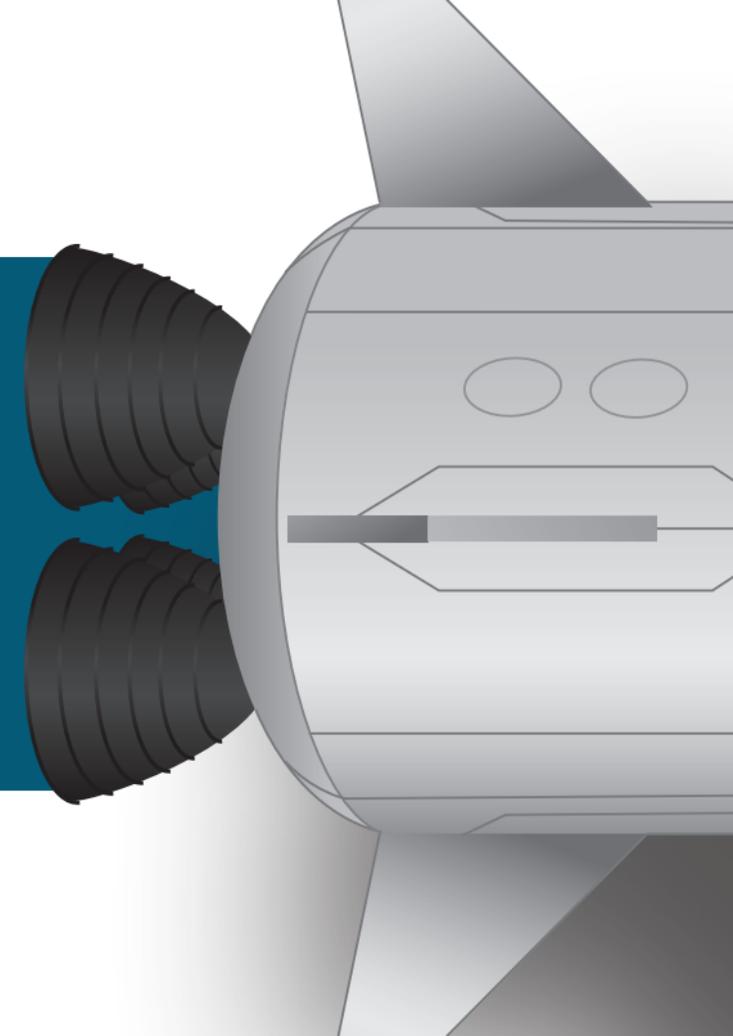

Define - Design - Deliver ensures that an outsourcing of tasks to Elfac results in an attractive and extremely reliable solution for our customers.

Here are the pros

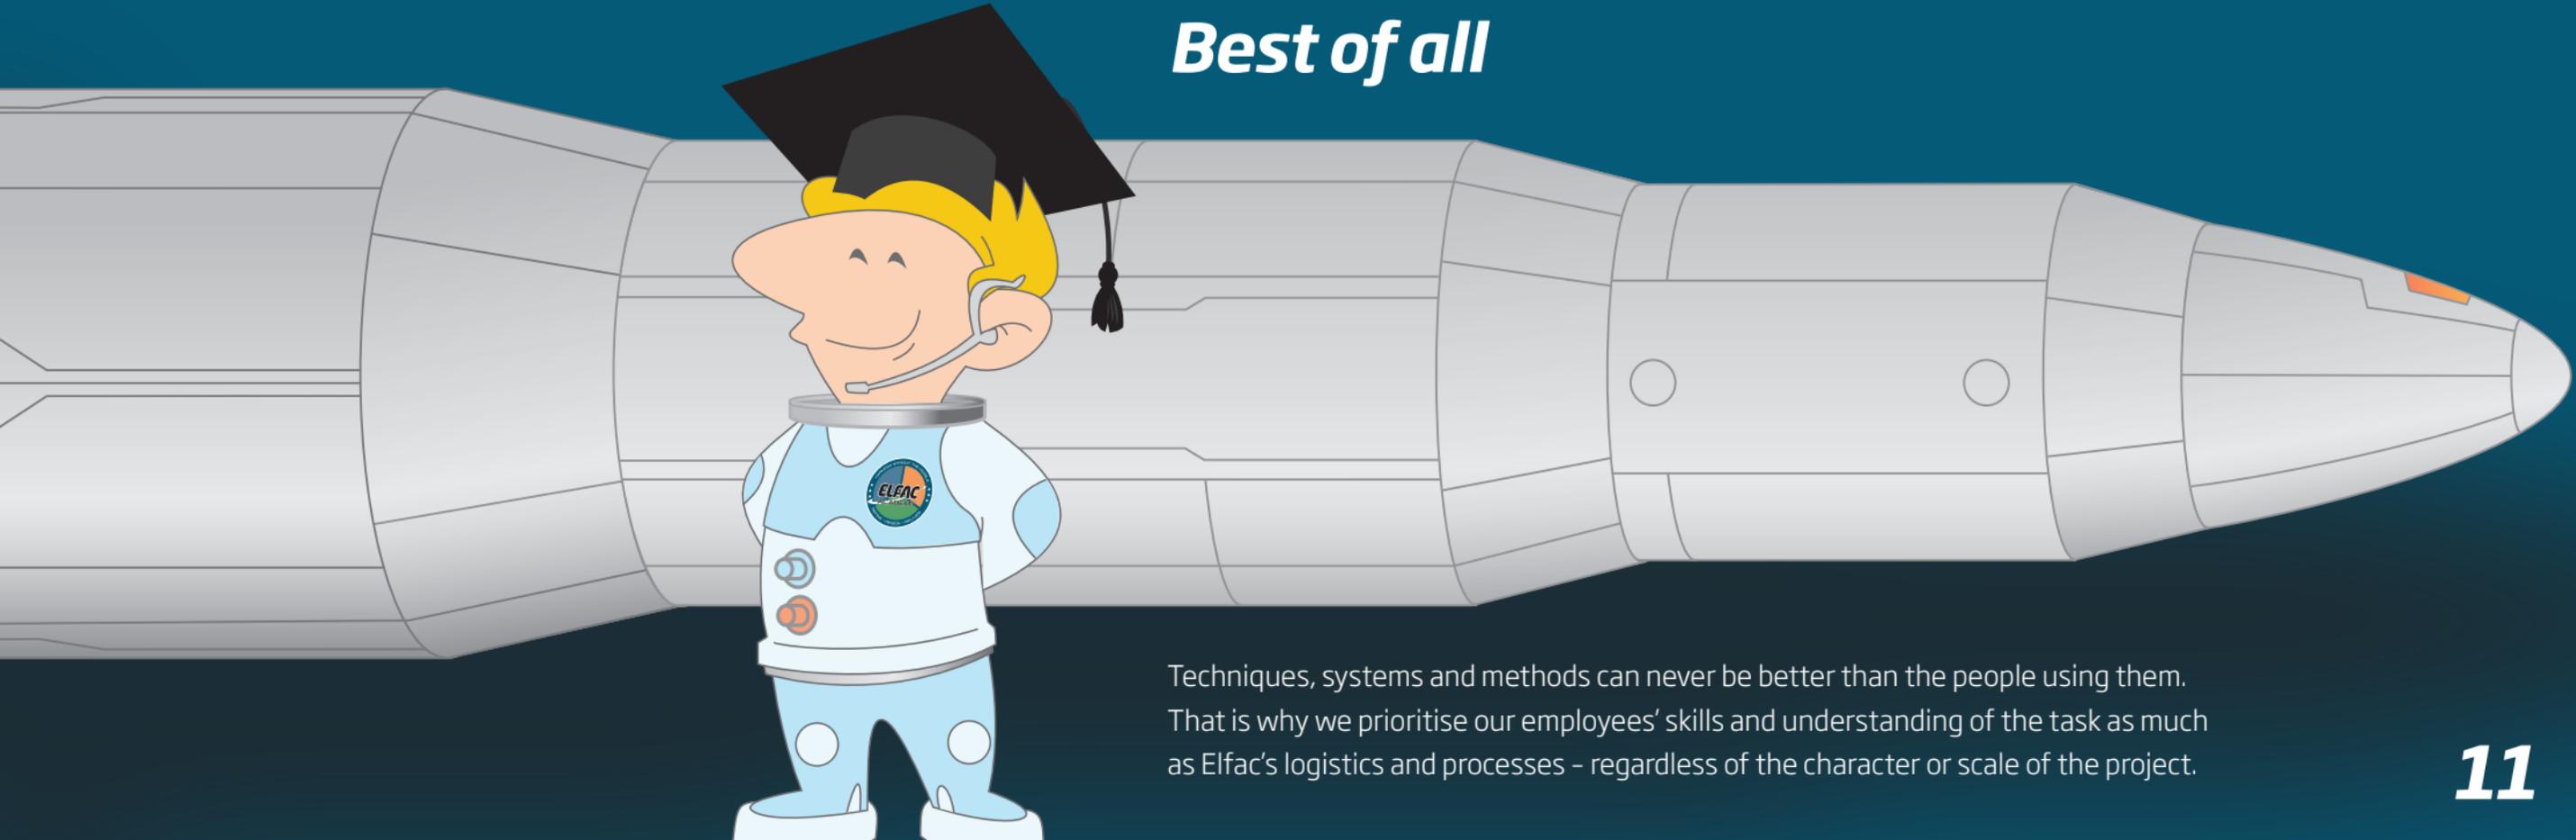

- Constructive collaboration and better documentation
- Fewer mistakes and resource savings
- On-time delivery and less capital - and storage commitment

The first step

We encourage our customers to involve us in the project as early as possible, because that creates the biggest savings and possibilities. So the first step is obvious: let us look at the project together and uncover the first advantages and savings in the process.

Best of all

Techniques, systems and methods can never be better than the people using them. That is why we prioritise our employees' skills and understanding of the task as much as Elfac's logistics and processes - regardless of the character or scale of the project.
